

The EPEE research center

While including members with diverse research interests, the EPEE center is mainly specialized in macroeconomics.

Stefano Bosi, Jean-Paul Barinci and Thai Ha-Hui use general equilibrium models to study macro-dynamics under a theoretical approach. Michel Guillard, Eleni Iliopoulos and Fabien Tripier currently focus on the interaction between financial markets, monetary policy and business cycles under an approach, which is both theoretical and applied. Carlos Winograd researches on topics in international finance under a perspective of political economy. Juliana Caceido Llano studies financial risk while Fabrice Pansard mostly works on financial regulation.

Maria Eugenia Sanin is an environmental economist working on energy, commodity prices and markets for pollution by using an applied and microeconomic approach. In the same vein, Jean de Beir studies environmental economics and issues on recycling. Mohamed Amine Boutabba studies environmental economics with a focus on long term growth.

Olivier Baguelin and Ekaterina Kalugina are both applied economists working on topics in labor economics. Thierry Laurent focuses on socio-demographic issues of labor markets. Claire Loupias research interests include both demography and financial macroeconomics. Finally, Daniel Diatkine is a specialist in history of economic thought.
